

Dr. Keith A. Kobet, MD

Dr. Kobet grew up in Redford Township, Michigan and did his undergraduate work at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He received his Medical degree at the University of Michigan followed by an Internship at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. He returned to Ann Arbor for his Ophthalmology residency, finishing in 1980, and achieving board certification. He opened the practice in Canton the same year.

Dr. Kobet is certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology, is a member of the AMA, the American Society of Cataract and Refractive Surgery, and is a life member of the The American Academy of Ophthalmology. He has hospital staff appointments for both the St. Joseph's Mercy and Beaumont health systems. The majority of his surgery, however, is done at the St. Joseph's outpatient center at Canton Center Rd. and Palmer.

Dr. Kobet practices comprehensive Ophthalmology with an emphasis on cataract surgery and intraocular lens implants.

Dr. Kobet lives in Northville, Michigan with his wife of 45 years, Susan. They have two adult children and five grandchildren.

An active instrument and multi-engine rated commercial pilot, Dr Kobet recently received the Wright Brothers Master Pilot award from the FAA for having a perfect safety record for 50 continuous years of flying.

In his spare time, he enjoys biking, boating, downhill skiing, swimming and scuba diving.
